

Gujarat High Court bans glass-coated kite strings ahead of Uttarayan

The Gujarat High Court today clarified that not only Chinese kite strings but also glass-coated kite strings are prohibited for flying kites. The court specified that the production, sale, use, and purchase of cotton threads coated with glass powder (glass-coated strings) are banned.

Typically, cotton cords are coated with glass powder to enhance sharpness, posing risks to humans, birds, and animals. Considering this, the court has directed the government to take strict action in this regard, enabling the police to act against the production, sale, and use of glass-coated strings.
