IMD Forecasts Rain, Thunderstorms in Gujarat Till June 5; Orange Alert in 6 Districts for Next 24 Hours

The India Meteorological Department (IMD) has forecast light to moderate rain and thunderstorms across large parts of Gujarat over the next five days, offering some relief from the prevailing heat. However, temperatures are expected to remain above 40°C in isolated pockets during the next two days before gradually declining.

According to the IMD's midday weather bulletin issued on June 1, rain and thundershowers are likely in almost all districts of Gujarat, except Jamnagar, Porbandar and Devbhumi Dwarka.
